finds security to the satisfaction of the Registrar for the due administration of the estate and appoints an attorney within Guyana.

39. (1) Nothing in this Act contained shall prevent any executor who has obtained probate from assuming any other person or persons as executor or executors of the testator under and by virtue of any power for that purpose granted to him by the testator in the will:

Assumption of executors under powers contained in will.

Provided that no one shall be entitled or qualified to act as assumed executor unless probate is granted to him as assumed executor during the lifetime of the testamentary executor by the Registrar, who shall do so as provided in section 35, after reference to the deposited will by which that assumption is authorised and on the deposit in the registry of the instrument by which the testamentary executor has assumed that person as executor.

(2) Every provision of this Act and of every other enactment applicable or relating to or affecting executors shall apply and relate to and affect every executor so assumed.

40. When, by reason of the death, or incapacitation to act, or removal from his office by the decree of a competent court, of any testamentary or assumed executor to whom probate has been granted, there remains for the administration of the estate no executor whatever nor as many executors, either testamentary or assumed, as, by the provisions of the will by which they were appointed or permitted to be assumed, are required to form a quorum of executors, and when any administrator appointed by the Court dies or becomes incapacitated or is removed in manner aforesaid after letters of administration have been granted to him, then proceedings for the appointment of an administrator in place of that executor or administrator shall be taken in like manner in all respects as hereinbefore provided by sections 27, 28 and 29.

Death, incapacity or removal of executors or administrators.

LAWS OF GUYANA

Revocation of probate and letters of administration.

41. Probate granted to an executor may be revoked and annulled by the Court on proof to its satisfaction that the will in respect of which the grant was made is null, or has been revoked either wholly or in so far as it relates to the nomination of that executor, and letters of administration granted to an administrator may be revoked and annulled by the Court on proof of the deposit of a will whereby another person (then legally capable and qualified and consenting to act as executor) has been legally nominated executor of the estate which the administrator has been appointed to administer:

Provided that if the non-deposit of the will prior to the grant of letters of administration has been due to the fault or negligence of the person therein nominated as executor, he shall be personally liable for, and may be compelled at the instance of any person interested to make good to the estate, all expenses incurred in respect of and with reference to the appointment of the administrator.

Security for due administration.

42. (1) The Court shall have power, on the application of any person interested, to require the executor or executors of any deceased person to whom probate has been granted to give security for the due administration of, and the due accounting for, the estate, and the care and custody of any property, in the amount and with the sureties in the circumstances of each particular case the Court deems reasonable.

(2) The Court may require the administrator of the estate of any deceased person, before the issue of letters of administration, to give security, in the amount and with the sureties in the circumstances of each particular case the Court deems reasonable for the due administration of and due accounting for, the estate and the care and custody of the property, and may give any orders or directions with reference to the administration, accounting, and care and custody the circumstances seem to require.

Executor of executor represents original testator.
[26 of 1952]

43. (1) An executor of a sole or last surviving executor of a testator is the executor of that testator.

This provision shall not apply to an executor who does not prove the will of his testator, and, in the case of an executor who on his death leaves surviving him some other executor of his testator who afterwards proves the will of that testator, it shall cease to apply on such probate being granted.

(2) So long as the chain of such representation is unbroken, the last executor in the chain is the executor of every preceding testator.

(3) The chain of such representation is broken by—

- (a) an intestacy; or
- (b) the failure of a testator to appoint an executor; or
- (c) the failure to obtain probate of a will; but is not broken by a temporary grant of administration if probate is subsequently granted.

(4) Every person in the chain of representation to a testator—

- (a) has the same rights in respect of the estate of that testator as the original executor would have had if living; and
- (b) is, to the extent to which the estate of that testator has come to his hands, answerable as if he were an original executor.

[34 of 1936]

(2) Where a Court of probate in any part of the Commonwealth, or a Commonwealth court in a foreign country, has, either before or after the passing of this Act, granted probate or letters of administration in respect of the estate of a deceased person, the probate or letters so granted may, on being produced to and a copy thereof deposited with, the Court, be sealed with the seal of the Court, and thereupon shall be of the like force and effect, and have the same operation in Guyana as if granted by that Court.

(3) The Court shall, before sealing a probate or letters of administration under this Act, be satisfied—

- (a) that probate duty has been paid in respect of so much, if any, of the estate as is liable to probate duty in Guyana; and
- (b) in the case of letters of administration, that security has been given in a sum sufficient in amount to cover the property, if any, in Guyana to which the letters of administration relate;

DUTIES OF EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS

45. (1) Every executor and administrator shall, as soon as probate or administration has been granted to him in manner aforesaid, make or cause to be made an inventory in the manner prescribed by section 13 of this Act, showing the value of all property, goods and effects movable and immovable, of what kind soever, whether in possession, reversion, or expectancy, belonging to the estate he is to administer, unless in the opinion of the Registrar a sufficient inventory and valuation in terms of either of sections 10, 12 and 13 of this Act have already been furnished, and shall in like manner, from time to time thereafter and so soon as he finds or knows of any other property, goods, or effects belonging to the estate and not contained in the first mentioned inventory, cause to be made an additional inventory, showing the value of all the last mentioned property, goods, and effects; and shall forthwith transmit or deliver the inventory to the Registrar to be filed as of record. Inventory by executors and administrators. [6 of 1991]

(2) Every executor and administrator shall have the power, where the interests of an estate require it, to obtain a sworn appraisal, and the necessary costs occasioned thereby shall be paid out of the estate.

46. Anyone required or authorised under the provisions of sections 10, 12, 13, and 45 to make or cause to be made an inventory of any property, goods and effects, who wilfully makes a false inventory thereof shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine of six thousand dollars. Making false inventory. [6 of 1991 6 of 1997]

47. If, previous to a grant of probate or letters of administration to any executor or administrator for the administration of an estate, any person takes upon himself to administer, distribute, or in any wise dispose of, that estate or any part thereof except so far as authorised by this Act or as absolutely necessary for the safe custody or preservation thereof, or for Liability in certain cases by persons intermeddling with estates and by persons to whom probate or letters of administration have been granted in respect of property not contained in inventory.

providing a suitable funeral for the deceased, or for the subsistence of the family or livestock left by the deceased; or if any person after a grant to him of probate or letters of administration, administers, distributes, or in any wise disposes of, any property, goods, or effects belonging to the estate of which he is the executor or administrator not contained in the inventory or inventories thereof furnished to the Registrar previous to that grant, or not contained in any inventory or additional inventory made or caused to be made by him and delivered or transmitted to the Registrar and filed in the registry in terms of section 45, that person shall thereupon become personally liable to pay to the creditors and legatees respectively of the deceased all debts due by him at the time of his death or which have thereafter become due from his estate, and all legacies bequeathed by him so far as the proceeds and assets of the estate are insufficient for the full payment thereof:

Provided that when anyone sued for the payment of any debt or legacy he has rendered himself personally liable to pay in manner aforesaid proves to the satisfaction of the Court before which he is sued that the true amount and value of the property which has actually been unduly administered, distributed, or disposed of, by him did not exceed a certain sum, and that his administration, distribution, or disposal of it was not fraudulent, then he shall be personally liable for only so much of that sum as he fails to prove has been administered, distributed, or disposed of according to law, and for the amount of the costs incurred in and concerning the action as well by him as by the plaintiff therein, notwithstanding that by reason of his personal liability having been restricted in manner aforesaid the plaintiff has not recovered from him any part of the debt or legacy sued for.

Notice by executors and administrators for lodgement of claims.

48. (1) Every executor or administrator to whom probate or letters of administration is or are granted shall, so soon as he enters on the administration of the estate and within fourteen days after the date of the grant, cause a notice to be published in the Gazette and in some newspaper circulating in the district or county in which the deceased ordinarily resided, calling upon all persons having claims as creditors against the deceased or his estate to lodge them with the executor or administrator within three months from the date of the first publication of the notice.

LAWS OF GUYANA

(2) The notice shall be published at least twice, with an interval of a week between each publication.

(3) All claims which would be provable in case of the insolvency of the estate shall be deemed to be claims of creditors for the purposes of this Act.

49. No one who has obtained the judgment of a court against a deceased person in his lifetime, or against his executor or estate, shall sue out or obtain any process in execution thereon before the expiration of the period notified in the Gazette in manner provided in the last preceding section, and no person shall thereafter within six months after the grant of probate or letters of administration obtain any process in execution without first obtaining an order of the Court.

Suspension of execution of judgments against deceased.

50. (1) On the expiration of the period notified in the Gazette in manner hereinbefore provided, every executor or administrator aforesaid shall forthwith proceed to rank, according to their legal order of preference, all claims of creditors against the deceased or his estate lodged with him, or of the existence of which he knows, and shall pay them in that order of preference as soon as the funds necessary for that purpose have been realised out of the estate.

Duties of executors after expiration of period for lodging claims.

(2) If the proceeds of the estate are found to be insufficient for the payment of all the valid claims of creditors against it, the executor or administrator shall be liable to pay to anyone having a valid claim the amount which that person would have been entitled to receive in respect of his claim if ranked according to the legal order of preference, so far as the executor or administrator has, within the period last mentioned, or afterwards at any time when he knew of the existence of the claim, paid that amount to any person the payment of whose claim against the deceased or his estate according to the legal order of preference ought to have been postponed until the valid claim aforesaid had been satisfied; reserving always to the executor or administrator recourse against the person to whom payment of his claim was improperly made:

Provided that—

LAWS OF GUYANA

(a) when the notice to creditors aforesaid has been duly published, no creditor claiming against the estate of any deceased person who has not lodged his claim with the executor or administrator within the period aforesaid, or thereafter before the distribution of the estate has been completed, shall in respect of his claim be entitled to recover from any person having a valid claim as a creditor against the estate restitution of any portion of that estate paid to that person in satisfaction of his claim after the expiry of that period and before the claim of the person seeking restitution was lodged with the executor or administrator, although if lodged in due time the last-mentioned claim would, according to the legal order of preference, have been preferred to that of the person to whom payment was previously made; and

(b) that creditor shall have no claim against an executor or administrator duly appointed in respect of any distribution aforesaid of the funds of any estate made by him after the expiry of the period aforesaid and before the claim of the creditor was known to the executor or administrator.

Priority of certain claims.
[6 of 1991]

51. In the distribution of any of the claims against the estates of deceased persons according to their rank or priority of preference after payment of the fees and expenses properly incurred in complying with the provisions of this Act, the executor or administrator of the estate shall class as preferent, and in the order in which they are hereafter set down, the following claims:

(a) funeral expenses in so far as suitable to the condition of the deceased person in life;

(b) medical attendance and medicine for the four months preceding the decease;

(c) taxes, imposts, dues, debts, and sums of money due to the State;

(d) local, municipal, village, and parochial rates, taxes and assessments;

(e) wages due to clerks for six months and to salesmen in retail provision shops and menial and other servants for the month preceding the death and the month in which the death takes place;

LAWS OF GUYANA

- (f) arrears of rent due for a period of six months antecedent to the grant of probate or letters of administration;
- (g) tacit and conventional mortgages according to their nature and priority.

52. An executor or administrator may, if he thinks fit, require anyone preferring a claim as creditor against the estate which he is administering to substantiate it by an affidavit setting forth its details with the particularity reasonably required by him, and may refuse to recognise it until that affidavit has been furnished, and any court by which the claim is adjudged in favour of the claimant may decline to grant him his costs against the estate if the court deems the information given by the claimant to the executor or administrator to have been insufficient and the executor or administrator to have acted with prudence and discretion in contesting it.

Affidavit may be required in support of claim.

53. If an executor or administrator finds after inquiry that the estate is insolvent he shall immediately take the necessary proceedings for having it administered in insolvency unless the creditors consent to receive a dividend in full satisfaction of their claims and proof of that consent is filed with the Registrar.

If an estate is insolvent.

54. If no provision be made in the will of the deceased to the contrary, or if the terms of appointment of an administrator be not opposed thereto, every executor and administrator shall have full power to sell all the property, goods, and effects of the deceased and to transport any immovable property for the purpose of the realisation and distribution of the estate:

Sale and realisation of estate of deceased person.

Provided that—

- (a) the sale shall be by public auction unless the Registrar, at the request of any interested party after due inquiry, is of opinion that it will be to the advantage of persons interested in an estate to sell out of hand instead of by public auction any property, goods, or effects belonging to the estate and grants the necessary authority to the executor or administrator so to act; and

LAWS OF GUYANA

(b) if, at the request of any interested party it is expedient to subdivide or to make a division of any movable or immovable property belonging to the estate without proceeding to sale, the Registrar may, after due inquiry and if he is satisfied that the proposed division is fair and equitable, grant the necessary authority to the executor or administrator so to act.

Surviving spouse or heirs and legatees may take over estate at appraisalment.

55. (1) If one of two spouses married in community of property dies intestate, or dies testate and makes no provision to the contrary in the will, the survivor may take over, or in the case of immovable property receive by transport, from the executor or administrator the share of the joint estate belonging to the deceased spouse at a valuation made by the sworn appraisalment of a competent and practising appraiser, instead of being realised according to law, unless in the opinion of the Court that course will be to the prejudice of any minor children of the deceased spouse; but no person having any lawful claim against the estate of the deceased spouse shall be delayed, prejudiced, or defeated in obtaining payment of that claim by virtue of anything in this section contained.

(2) Under the like conditions and on any further conditions decided by the Court, any of the heirs or legatees of any estate may take over, or in the case of immovable property receive by transport, from the executor or administrator the whole or any portion of the estate, or any asset thereto belonging, at a valuation.

Claims of unrepresented infants, lunatics and absent persons.
[13 of 1932]

56. An executor or administrator who, in administering and distributing an estate, finds that any infant who has no lawful guardian, or any lunatic who has no lawful committee, or any person absent from Guyana who has no lawful representative therein, has any valid right or claim to that estate or any portion thereof, shall forthwith transmit to the Public Trustee a statement in writing containing the name of the infant, lunatic, or absent person, and specifying the nature and value of the property to which he has that right or claim.

Moneys of infants, lunatics, or absent persons.
[13 of 1932]

57. (1) Any executor or administrator who, in administering and distributing any estate, discovers that any sum of money has devolved upon, or become due from the estate, to any infant, lunatic, or person absent from Guyana who has no guardian, committee, or lawful representative therein, shall, unless the will directs that money to be otherwise dealt with, within fourteen days after the discovery, pay the money to the Public Trustee to be paid into the guardians fund.

(2) Nothing in this section contained shall be taken to limit any power possessed by the Court to order the money to be paid by the executor or administrator to any person for any purpose.

58. (1) Every executor and administrator shall administer and distribute the estate which he is appointed to administer according to law and the provisions of any valid will relating to that estate and shall, as soon as may be after the expiration of the period notified in the Gazette in manner hereinbefore provided and not later than twelve months from the day on which probate or letters of administration are issued to him, (unless upon application to the Registrar upon sufficient cause shown to satisfaction of the Registrar further time is given from time to time for that purpose), file with the Registrar a full and true account, verified by affidavit and supported by vouchers, of the administration and distribution of the estate.

Administrators' accounts.

(2) If the account is not the final account it shall set forth all debts due to the estate still outstanding and all property, goods, and effects, still unsold and unrealised, and the reason why they have not been collected, sold, or realised, as the case may be.

(3) The executor or administrator shall, every twelve months after the filing of the first account, render further accounts of his administration and distribution until the estate is fully administered and if he fails to do so shall be liable to be dealt with in terms of the next succeeding section.

(4) The account shall be open at the registry for inspection during office hours for not less than three weeks after it is filed by any person interested in the estate.

(5) The Registrar shall, immediately after the account is filed, give due notice on two successive Saturdays that it is so open to inspection, by publication in the Gazette and in some newspaper circulating in the district or county in which the deceased ordinarily resided, and shall state in the notice the period and place during and at which the account will be open for inspection.

(6) Anyone interested in the estate may, at any time before the expiration of the period allowed for inspection, file with the Registrar objection in writing to the account with reasons therefor.

(7) If the Registrar is of opinion that an objection ought to be sustained, he shall direct the executor or administrator to amend the account or shall give any other directions he deems fit:

Provided that —

(a) any person aggrieved by the direction of the Registrar may, within twenty-one days after the date of that direction, and after giving notice to the executor or administrator and to any person affected thereby, apply to the Court for an order to set it aside, and the Court may make any order it thinks fit; and

(b) when the direction affects the interests of a person who has not lodged an objection, the account so amended shall be again open for inspection in the manner and with the notices aforesaid, unless the person so affected consents in writing to the account being acted upon.

(8) The executor or administrator shall, forthwith after filing with the Registrar any account, forward through the post a notice stating that he has filed an account to every creditor, beneficiary and other person interested in the estate, and shall, in the affidavit verifying the account, set forth the names and postal addresses of the persons to whom he intends to forward a notice.

(9) The executor or administrator shall, as against the estate, be entitled to the costs and expenses of and attendant on the rendering and filing of an account and the forwarding of notices, if the account is filed within the time prescribed, but not otherwise.

59. (1) Whenever an executor or administrator fails to file the account with the Registrar, or to comply with any direction or requirement as mentioned in the preceding section, the Registrar or any person having an interest in the estate may apply to the Court for an order calling upon him to show cause why the account has not been so filed or the direction or requirement complied with:

If administrator fails to file accounts.
[13 of 1932]

Provided that—

(a) the Registrar or other person aforesaid shall, within one month before making that application, apply by letter to the executor or administrator in default requiring him to file his account or to comply with the direction or requirement on pain of being called upon to show cause under this section; and

(b) an executor or administrator who receives the last mentioned application may file with the Registrar any grounds and reasons he is able to state why he has not filed his account or complied with the direction or requirement, and the Registrar, if those grounds and reasons seem to him sufficient, may grant to the executor or administrator any extension of time which in the circumstances he deems reasonable; reserving always the right of any person having an interest in the estate to bring under review before the Court the decision of the Registrar granting the extension; and

(c) any executor or administrator in default, if he fails to satisfy the Registrar that he ought to receive an extension of time, may apply to the Court (of which application notice shall be given to the Registrar and other person aforesaid) for an order granting to him an extension of time within which to file his account, or comply with the direction or requirement.

(2) Although the Court may be of opinion that the grounds and reasons filed with the Registrar by an executor or administrator would have warranted the Registrar in granting an extension of time, the Registrar, or other person at whose instance application is made, shall nevertheless be entitled to his costs if, before applying to the Court for an order on the executor or administrator whose grounds and reasons the Registrar has overruled and declared insufficient, he has allowed the executor or administrator sufficient time to apply to the Court for an order granting to the executor or administrator an extension of time, or if the Court finds that the Registrar acted in good faith.

Registrar's costs in certain cases.

LAWS OF GUYANA

Incidence of costs.

(3) The costs adjudged to the Registrar or other person aforesaid upon any process sued out by him or on his behalf shall be payable by the executor or administrator in default personally and shall not be chargeable to the estate under administration unless the executor or administrator is authorised by the Court to do so.

Remuneration of executors and administrators.

60. (1) Every executor and administrator shall, in respect of his administration, distribution, and final settlement, of any estate, be entitled to claim and receive out of the assets of the estate, or from anyone who, as heir, legatee, or creditor, is entitled on administration to the whole or any portion of the estate, to any remuneration fixed by the deceased by will, otherwise to an amount to be assessed by the Registrar not exceeding the rates following:

(a) where the total value of the property does not exceed ten thousand dollars, ten per cent on the amount of all receipts; and

(b) where the total value of the property exceeds ten thousand dollars, ten per cent on ten thousand dollars and five per cent on the amount of all receipts over and above ten thousand dollars:

Provided that where any plantation, farm, business, or undertaking is carried on or is being administered, the remuneration shall not be payable on the gross receipts but shall be that determined and fixed by the Registrar according to the circumstances of each particular case;

subject to review by the Court upon the application of the executor or administrator or of any person having an interest in the estate.

(2) If any executor or administrator fails to administer any estate with due diligence or fidelity, or to file or render the account of his administration and distribution of the estate in due course of law, and has no lawful and sufficient excuse for his failure, the Registrar may disallow the whole or any portion of the remuneration which he might otherwise have been entitled to receive in respect of his administration of the estate, subject, however, to review by the Court.

(3) For the purposes of this section the term "receipts" includes rent, interest, and book debts, but does not include money in the hands of the deceased at the time of his death, the proceeds of the sale of effects and realisation of investments, and the like, and the remuneration assessed on the amount of that money, those proceeds of sale, that realisation of investments, and the like shall not exceed one-half the rates allowed in subsection (1)(a) and (b).

61. (1) If the owner of any immovable property has at his death bequeathed a fiduciary, usufructuary, or other limited interest in the property to anyone and has directed by his will that the property shall devolve after the expiration of that limited interest upon any other person or persons certain or uncertain, then the executor or administrator of the estate of the deceased owner shall, upon or before drawing up any administration and distribution account of the estate, transport the property to the person immediately entitled to the limited interest therein, with an express reservation in the transport of the rights of the other person or persons.

When property bequeathed with limited interest with eventual right to heir in remainder.

(2) Nothing herein contained shall affect the right of any executor or administrator to sell and transport any immovable property for the purpose of paying the debts of the deceased owner thereof, but the sanction of the Court must be obtained for the sale and transport if there are infant children surviving.

(3) The passing of any transport under this section shall not be deemed to determine whether the interest bequeathed is usufructuary or fiduciary.

62. If a person to whom a fiduciary, usufructuary, or other limited interest has been bequeathed as in the last preceding section mentioned does not renounce the bequest and yet refuses to accept transport thereof in terms of that section, or if it is impossible for the executor or administrator of the former owner of the property to pass transport of the limited interest to him for any reason whatsoever, the executor or Holder of limited interest compelled to accept transport.

LAWS OF GUYANA

administrator may apply to the Court for an order compelling him to do all things in his power necessary to enable a transport of the limited interest to be passed as required by the preceding section; and the Court may make any order in the circumstances it deems proper.

Inheritances of infants.

63. A surviving spouse shall have the right to receive from the executor or administrator the inheritance of his or her infant children and to retain it until their majority, and in the case of immovable property, to accept transport in the name of any of them:

Provided that—

(a) if the deceased spouse has by will directed that the inheritance shall be otherwise dealt with, nothing herein contained shall be taken to prevent the executor or administrator from carrying into effect the provisions of the will;

(b) the right of a surviving parent may at any time be limited or revoked by the Court on application, subject to any conditions the Court imposes;

(c) in the event of the death of an infant before reaching majority his or her inheritance shall become payable at once.

Delivery of grosse or deed. [6 of 1997]

64. Anyone in possession of a grosse transport, mortgage, or title deed, required by an executor or administrator in order to comply with any of the provisions of this Act, who refuses to deliver it or unreasonably delays its delivery to the executor or administrator shall be liable to pay all reasonable costs which the executor or administrator incurs in obtaining the order of a competent Court for its possession, or in obtaining a certified copy thereof, and shall be liable in addition to any penalty (not exceeding nine thousand seven hundred and fifty dollars) the Court imposes, but the legal rights or position of that person shall not be affected by his delivery of the grosse or deed in terms of this section.

THE GUARDIANS FUNDS

The guardians fund. [13 of 1932]

66. (1) All moneys paid to the Public Trustee under this or any other Act to be placed to the credit of the guardians fund shall be invested by him in any of the securities authorised by law for the investment of trust moneys.

67. Anyone claiming a sum of money paid over to the Public Trustee to the credit of the guardians fund which the Public Trustee for any reason is unable to certify to be due and payable to the claimant shall apply by petition to the Minister responsible for finance, who may, if he sees fit, authorise the Public Trustee to pay out that sum of money or refer the party to establish the claim by due course of law, and in the latter case the Public Trustee shall make any defence in law he may be legally advised:
